However, at the office of the road department in the city hall no information has been received to the effect that any laborers have abandoned their jobs.

Is The Geier Making Plans to Sail From Port of Honolulu?

Startling reports relative to the movement of the Japanese and German naval visitors at the port of Honolulu are the order of the day throughout this city. The latest available refers to the proposed action of the commander of the German gunboat Geier.

According to a prominent Honolulu who had recent occasion to pay a visit to the Geier, that vessel is preparing for the plunge to the open sea. He says: "The Geier is greasing her torpedoes and is ready to make the run for the open sea. I am of the opinion that it is the intention of the Geier to put to sea; make an effort to torpedo the Japanese cruiser Hizen and in the event of failure in this purpose to put to shore and 'beach' the vessel."

"Such action would permit the commanding officer of the German vessel excusing himself for not intervening and also for not getting killed."

"It is generally understood that all officials of the German navy are prohibited from intervening unless they are ordered so to do by the national government. To act without these instructions, according to the German naval code, I am informed, is for the commander to ostracize himself socially and I do not believe any German would take such chances."

The only point that mitigates against the truthfulness of this story is the counter report that the Geier has no torpedo tubes and would be unable to take drastic action against the enemy without the aid of a first class submarine from the major leagues.

FLYING TIMBER IN BUSY STREET FROM BIG BLAST

While Hotel street was at its busiest at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, men in charge of the excavation of the William Wolters' building site on Union street a hundred feet away set off a big blast in the coral rock they were trying to dig out. The blast tore through a covering of heavy timbers, chained together, which rested on top of the coral, threw splinters, stones and trash in all directions and sent one heavy piece of timber hurtling through the air to fall squarely in the middle of Hotel street.

The timber was about six feet long and larger than a "two-by-four" and fell with a violence that badly frightened a young lady not far away. Two newsboys were near the spot when the timber smashed down out of the skies.

J. W. Caldwell of the Honolulu Construction & Draying Company was at the scene of the blasting, the company having the excavating contract. He said that only twice has a blast torn through the covering of timbers and that the man in charge of the blasting is one of the most competent in the city.

"All possible care is being exercised," said Caldwell. "The coral is hard to excavate and we have to blast it."

Much criticism of the blasting operations so close to the city streets during the busy hours of the day was heard from the bystanders that collected immediately after the timber fell.

JAMES A. RATH IS OPPOSED TO 'BILLY' SUNDAY

Headworker of Palama Settlement Would Prefer That Sum Be Otherwise Expended

Voicing his protest against the movement to bring "Billy" Sunday, the noted evangelist, to Honolulu next year, James A. Rath, headworker of the Palama Settlement, in a statement to the Star-Bulletin this morning, said that, in his opinion, and in the opinion of the Palama Settlement, the $10,000 which it has been estimated will be the expense of bringing Mr. Sunday here, could be used to a far greater advantage if expended in local anti-tuberculosis, social service or playground work.

At a meeting recently of the council of the Inter-Church Federation, which organization started the movement to bring Mr. Sunday to Honolulu, Wilfred Humphreys, boys' work director of the Palama Settlement, made the statement that it was the idea of the settlement that the money which would be needed to bring Mr. Sunday here could be expended to a greater advantage in other forms of local work. He voiced the sentiments which Mr. Rath has given the Star-Bulletin.

At the same meeting, a letter was read from Bishop Henry Bond Restarick to the effect that the Episcopal churches of Honolulu would not join in the movement to bring Mr. Sunday here.

"I agree with Bishop Restarick," said Mr. Rath today. "I am not in favor of emotionalism in religion, nor of violence of speech such as is customary with 'Billy' Sunday. I believe that steady, everyday work counts more in the long run. I believe that the money which it will take to bring Mr. Sunday to Honolulu could be better spent in forwarding the anti-tuberculosis work; it could be expended to a better advantage in playground work or some other form of social service work."

PINKHAM WILLING TO TRADE BONDS FOR NEW WHARF

Waimea Can Have Improvement if $26,000 Is Expended On "Unsold" Issue

If the citizens of Kauai want a new wharf at Waimea, they can have it—provided they buy $26,000 worth of the new territorial bonds. This is the decision reached by Governor Pinkham and announced today by his new cabinet official, Treasurer C. J. McCarthy. For several years the citizens have been urging the territory to build a permanent pier at Waimea. They are to have their desire granted at last, if the funds can be raised.

The last legislature set aside an appropriation of $25,000 for harbor and wharf improvements on the Garden Island. As yet none of this amount has been expended, for the very good reason that the money has not been available. The board of harbor commissioners decided some time ago that this sum should be expended in erecting a good pier at Waimea, and it was expected that the money would be at hand from the sale of the new bond issue in the East before this time.

The failure to make a sale in the States has necessitated some further delay, though the governor has now agreed that the improvement shall be made if sufficient bonds can be sold at home. When the bonds arrive from New York, which should be within the next week or two at most, they will be ready for sale over the counter at the territorial treasurer's office, and anyone looking for a conservative 4 per cent investment may purchase. To comply with the law such sales must be made at a price slightly above the price paid for the last advertised sale of bonds, however. This means that the investors will be required to pay $100.01 for each $100 worth of bonds.

"If the people of Kauai want to assure the construction of the new pier at Waimea, they can do so by joining together and buying an aggregate of $26,000 worth of these bonds," said Treasurer McCarthy.

JAPAN'S POLICY IN SOUTH SEAS TO BE WATCHED

Newspaper Comment in Nippon Shows Satisfaction with Seizure of Groups

Japan's far-reaching naval operations in the South Seas are the subject of considerable satisfied comment in the newspapers of Japan. Oriental mail received in Honolulu is filled with news of what Japan is doing in the Marshalls, the Carolines and other German possessions in the Pacific. In fact, one paper, the Osaka Mainichi, speaks frankly of permanent retention of the Carolines.

A high official of the Japanese foreign office in an interview with a representative of the Japan Advertiser described the occupation of the South Sea Islands as being under the same conditions as already announced as applying to the occupation by the Japanese of Jaluit Island and that Japanese forces will remain in possession of the island until after the termination of the war.

A previous statement made in an interview by another member of the foreign office that the so-called Root-Takahira agreement of 1906 is now void is not correct. This agreement, otherwise known as the Japanese-American Convention, is still in force. Occupation of Yap.

Shanghai.—The Japanese South Sea fleet has occupied the Yap Island in the Caroline group, seized the German ships and is now in possession of the island.

CABLEGRAM AND PETITION 'RETAIN M'CARN'

PETITION TO RETAIN M'CARN.
"We, the undersigned citizens of the City of Honolulu, Territory of Hawaii, are familiar with the private life and public record of Honorable Jeff M'Carn since his assumption of the duties of United States district attorney for the District of Hawaii. We have found him to be a man of probity, integrity and high moral principles, and a factor for the advancement of those high ideals. As an official he has been able, fearless and upright. Should his resignation be asked for and accepted, we would regard it as a fatal loss to the cause of good citizenship and the forces of law and order and a detriment to the department of justice as well as an irreparable wrong to the man himself. We earnestly request that the department of justice retain Mr. M'Carn in the office of United States district attorney for the District of Hawaii."
